Toddler Tales
Wednesdays at 9:30 am

Research shows that a child's ability to read is shaped in the first five years of life. From the earliest coos and babbles, Schreiner Memorial Library is here to support parents and caregivers in setting the foundation for children to become successful students. Our programs foster the development of the five predictors of early literacy: oral language, phonemic awareness, alphabet awareness, concepts about print, and early writing with inventive spelling. Come and play with us!
